

Trump Wants Coronavirus Vaccine To Be Free and Voluntary

U.S. President Donald Trump said he was looking into making a coronavirus vaccine available free of charge when and if one becomes available.

"We're looking at that, actually," Trump said when asked by a reporter at the White House whether a vaccine would be free.

Trump recently introduced "Operation Warp Speed," an initiative to fast-track coronavirus vaccine development with a goal to have FDA approval by January 2021.

Its objective is to finish developing and then to manufacture and distribute a proven coronavirus vaccine as fast as possible. In addition, it will continue accelerating the development of diagnostics and breakthrough therapies."

Some experts say his plan raises ethical and safety questions "which are of grave importance not only to pro-life citizens, but to everyone."

Trump said a vaccine would be for those "who want to get it," adding, "Not everyone is going to want to get it."
